Our Heads

Congratulations and best wishes to the "Olympic Year Graduates". May you be the people of HOPE who see life as a mystery and a challenge, calling you to grow in skill and knowledge, testing your spiritual endurance, inviting you to respond in unconditional love.

J. McCarthy, R.S.C.J.

"The butterfly counts not months but moments and has time enough." - Tagore

Jesus, my friend and yours, lived each moment of His life in the present moment - try it - GIVE your whole attention - GIVE yourself to each moment - it does solve problems - it will make you an unselfish and grateful person.

M. Johnson, R.S.C.J.
Headmistress

Dear Graduates,

1976 is an important year in Montreal and a unique year to graduate. Just as the Olympic athletes have spent years training for the games, you too have worked for a long time to complete your high school studies.

July 1976 is the athletes' big date but for you it is a stepping stone. Where will you go? What will you do? Whatever the answers, all my very best wishes go with you.

C. Barbara Joy
Director of Studies.

Dedication

Miss Barbara Joy

I once knew a math teacher
Whose name was B. Joy,
Not to be confused
With the other M. Joy.
She knows her golf and functions galore,
And while making tea,
It's one, two, three, "FORE".

G. Trudel

Miss Joy's motto: "Whenever I feel like working I sit down until I feel better."

"They also serve..."

OUR CLASS

Our class is all girls,
There are no teenage boys,
We all have our sorrows,
We all have our joys,
We are a class of friends,
But on the road there lie some bends,
I sometimes go into school feeling down on the ground,
But all my classmates seem to wash away my frown,
All the kids in IB are really great,
Each one of us helps shape the other's fate.

COUNTRY SUNRISE

The sun had not yet risen. Beyond the lake's eastern shore the pale blue sky was bordered with bands of crimson and gold. Their brightness stretched around the south shore and shone on a high bank that stood up from the water. Night was still shadowy in the northwest, but the lake lay like a sheet of silver in a setting of tall grass. Ducks quacked among the thick grass to the southwest. Screaming gulls flew over the lake, beating against the morning wind. A wild goose rose from the water with a ringing call. One after another the birds of his flock answered him as they rose and followed. The great triangle of wild geese flew with the beating of strong wings into the glory of a country sunrise.

I walk alone at dawn
When the world is calm, untouched
Like mirrored water
And Aurora appears
In solitary beauty.
The sun moved across the sky
behind a grey film
A final leaf fell
From an already dead tree
Rippling in the water, among dead fish
Silence reigns - too quiet
As a thin soot falls upon the seas.

ON THE BUS

Brand new two-seaters
by the bright left-hand windows shiny and small,
Squeezing for leg room
Hemmed in by silver fronts
Sitting dangerously close to the stranger beside you
Brand new two-seaters
are only for Lovers.

WINDOWS

Open the windows of my soul,
let me breathe
let me be free.
Open the windows of my eyes,
let me look at you
let me see.
Open the windows of my heart,
let me love
do not disregard this plea.
Open the windows of my life.
let me Live
let me Be.

Waiting...

Lying in the summer grass,
Waiting for the clouds to pass.

Some are slow and some are fast,
Will they all sail by at last?

There's a bear and his friend fair,
Are they sitting in a chair?

Slowly not they float away,
Too bad they didn't want to stay...

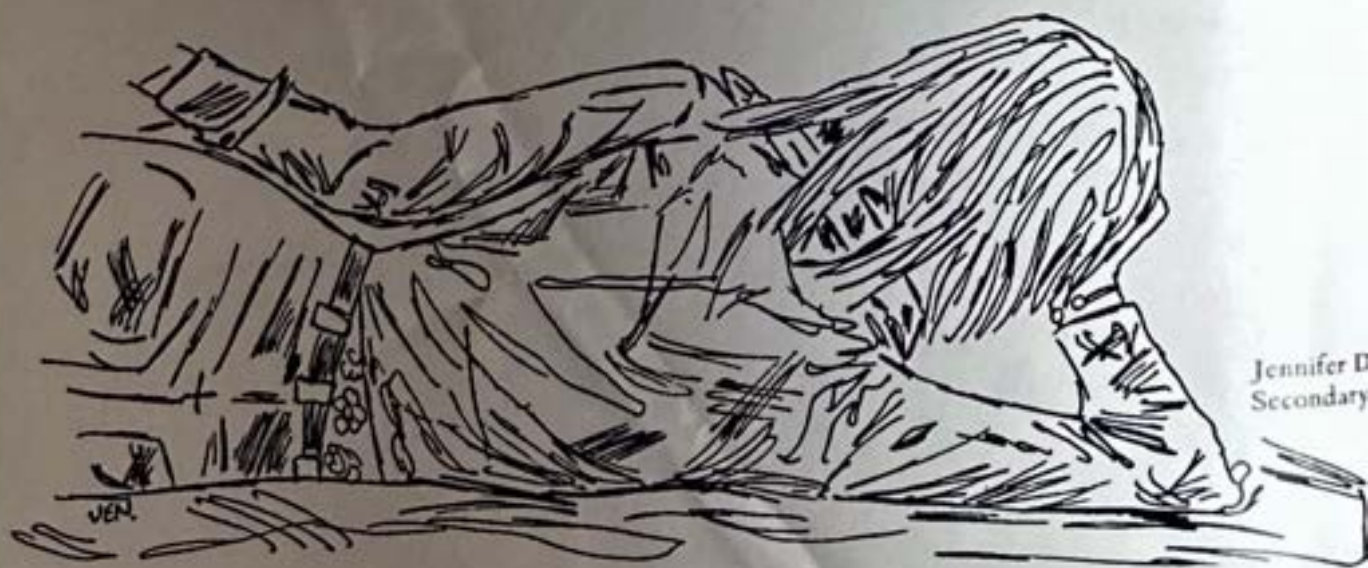

Now there's a cat, all plump and fat,
I do believe he's chasing a hat.

Are there any more to pass?
Ah! they've melted into one, alas.

'Twas good of you to come along,
But now it's time to say: "So long."

Lying in the summer grass,
Waiting for the clouds to pass.

... and Waiting

Waiting for the eventide
A pleasant time or place
Waiting for a dream to start
A dream without a face.

Waiting in the moonlight
Waiting for a star
Waiting for a trip to start
A trip that will lead me far.

Waiting in the dawn
To see my dreams come true
Waiting for the eventide
With all my waiting through.

The autumn leaves drift slowly down,
Knowing soon they'll hit the ground
Up above, the sky is grey
Comes the end of a drab fall day.

A young girl shuffles down the street,
Dead leaves rustle between her feet
She's deep in thought, a world of her own
Content on being all alone.

It seems her mind is far away
She's thinking of a better day
Sunshine, friends, smiles galore
Why not now as it was before.

Her mind overflowing with a vision long gone
Of telephones ringing, and the mountain at dawn
Happiness, softness, a shining star,
Once so close, it seems so far.

She turns and looks the other way,
Uncertain whether to go or stay
While autumn leaves drift slowly down
Knowing soon they'll hit the ground.

EL LADRON

Un señor rico da una fiesta en su casa. Hay muchísimos invitados. Uno de los invitados roba un tenedor y una cuchara de plata y se los guarda en el bolsillo. El rico ve el robo pero no dice nada.

Un momento más tarde, llama a todos y dice en voz alta, que va a divertir a sus invitados con un poco de prestidigitación. Toma sobre la mesa un tenedor y una cuchara de plata y se los pone en el bolsillo.

Ven ustedes? Han desaparecido. Pero ahora van a aparecer en el bolsillo de otra persona.

Así, agita los manos de manera mágica y misteriosa y finalmente, con un gesto elegante, saca la cuchara y el tenedor del bolsillo del ladrón . . . El cual, furioso, no puede protestar.

TOI

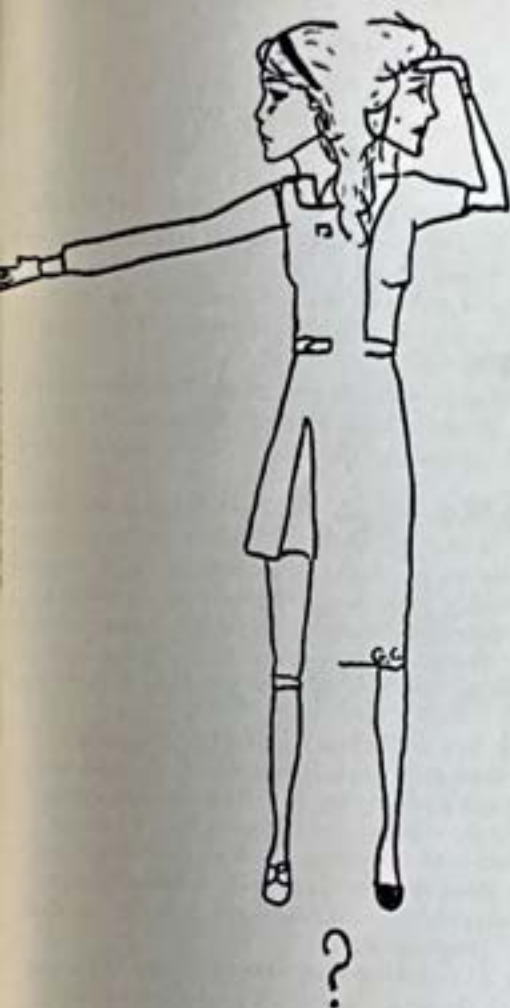

Toi qui es là haut
Et as tout ce qu'il te faut
Pourquoi ne viens tu pas à mon aide
J'ai froid, je suis seule, je, suis laide.

Tu as tout toi
Je n'ai rien moi

Tu sais, j'aimerais venir te voir
Au lieu de rester dans ce maudit manoir
Où le plancher craque à chaque pas
Et le soir on entend le bruit des rats.

Aide-moi, Toi.

FREEDOM

The prison of my freedom is closing me in to have to do this for the other is sin.

The prison of right and wrong
the prison of choosing a tight rope in the night or a dark pit of losing.

Is freedom reality?
or is it a ghost?
A ghost of delusion
a ghost that haunts most.

The voice of Society
booms hard in the night
the voice of insanity will someone find the light?

No, freedom is not freedom can never be for in the land of prison
no-one could ever be free.

RAINFALL - DON'T BOTHER ME AT ALL

I love to see the rain fall
I love the sound it makes
It's gentle song is soothing it fills the sky-blue lake.
When I hear the rain fall
I love to take a walk through the fields and meadows and with God I talk.
I tell him of my trouble and wonder if he hears
Why does he never answer?
Why are you never near?
I love to walk in the rainfall
then I never have to lie for when I'm in the rainfall you cannot see me cry.

"EYES"

Hello there! Let us introduce ourselves. Our name is Hazel. Hazel Brown. The reason we're here is to discuss what it's like to be two of Montreal's millions of eyes. We live with a really kind girl, Jane. She's twenty-two, and we feel very lucky to have such a sweet person, because many of our cousins and other relatives own really nasty people.

Generally, we enjoy life to it's fullest. However we have one small drawback. We may own Jane but Jane owns the boys. This means that Jane can bring us anywhere she wants to go, provided once we're there, we show her everything. The best way to tell you about what we do in life would be to tell you about an average day for us.

Being like all other eyes in Montreal we get up early in the morning, eat, and go to work. Ah yes! Work. The ride to work is very painful for us. You see, Jane is very intellectual, and in her spare time, she reads. We don't mind reading, so we do to please her. The reason it's so painful is that we need glasses desperately. We can't talk to Jane directly, so she doesn't know it yet.

Arriving for work is always exciting. Jane is a salesgirl, and now we get to an interesting part. She works full-time but there is a medical student who works there part-time to pay his tuition. Boy oh Boy! Is he ever good-looking! This is the only time we deliberately displease Jane. She's engaged to someone who was transferred for six months, so she doesn't even look at boys or men. He's really sweet, like Jane, but comparing him to this medical student is like comparing water to a triple chocolate milkshake. Although Jane doesn't look at him, we do, and tee-hee, we sometimes wink! Jane would be terribly embarrassed to hear this. We shouldn't have even mentioned it. But he sometimes winks back. Now that's exciting, and that's why we look forward to work. Other than that, the day is pretty uneventful. Jane doesn't do very much at night, but when she does strange things happen.

The first thing she does is pull out some of our hair, so that it's all perfectly even, and not too bushy. (That's what she always says.) Next, she paints us! She actually paints us! Sometimes green, sometimes brown, sometimes even white. We think it's a little weird, but she always takes it off when she comes home. She then proceeds to do the strangest thing yet. She comb our lashes and dirties them all with some black object. We still don't know why she does this, but so far she hasn't hurt us.

Actually our life is quite a bit like everyone else's so we're happy. Jane checks us once a year, protects us with sunglasses and, sometimes lets us read good books and see good movies... and at the odd times, she brings us to really exciting places. The only thing is that we are never on our own. Jane follows us everywhere, except when she is asleep, and then it's too dark to see anything on our own anyway. She sticks to us almost as if she owns us! Imagine that!

We really hope that now you know what it's like for us to be eyes. We only ask one thing, when someone walks by, show us one gorgeous of the opposite sex that is, if you're not interested, let us look just the same. Please. Well, we hope that we have answered your questions, or, at least some of them.

All our love,
Hazel Brown

A MASK IN A HATBOX

Mary Jones has a mask in a box
A mask she wears to tea
She wears it with, all of her friends
Her true self no one can see.

She takes it off when she is alone
And wants to be herself
If others would all take off their masks
Hers would remain in a box on the shelf.

But she must pretend to be what she's not
So others will think she's the same
And now she cannot remove her mask
And Society's to blame.

It said in the paper she passed away
Giving the time and place
It said she drowned in the bathroom
While trying to wash her face.

I walked...

Soft wind splashed across my face. I walked...

Washing me of any trace. I walked...

Of sin, of self, of sanity.

I walked...

I stood...

Until my teeth

Hearings, feeling,

wrapping the worth.

I stood... Of pain and

I fell...

Embracing void, turbulent water, rushing. I fell...

For rough, plume, right from wrong, straining,

I fell. I fell...

Only the curious, stopped to stare
At my

I ran...

Against the highway, at my side. I

"Ever wonder who taught Sacred Heart girls how to cat nap?"

"Isn't anybody going to claim this slave? ... All right Katie, put her in the poor box."

House System

The House System is improving tremendously every year. The houses are a great opportunity for the girls to get acquainted with others not necessarily in their own grade, creating a warmer and more comfortable atmosphere around the school.

Various houses have organized bake sales, raffles, games, and even a slave auction. Students are encouraged to gain points for their house by participating in various clubs and contests. They can also take part in the inter-house events which take place during the year. Duchesne proved to be the best spellers in the Spelling Bee contest; Stuart were the champions in the broomball tournament and Barat were the winners of our "Reach for the Top" tournament.

Our house system is exciting, challenging fun and surely one of the main causes of our great school spirit.

Girls'

Athletic

Association

This year, we offered a variety of different programmes. The G.A.A. organized the Tabloids and Snow Day. Our first tabloid was held in the fall and all went well until the end when the rain spoiled an almost perfect day. Snow Day, this year, took place in January and Mrs. Watson and the G.A.A. staff all felt that it ran much smoother than last year.

We also had a variety of noontime activities, such as tennis, badminton and ping-pong tournaments as well as inter-house competitions in broomball, deck tennis and softball. The broomball competition was won by Stuart and the deck tennis competition was won by Digby.

Field Days

Besides all the previously mentioned activities, The Ten Mile club was organized for all the students interested in jogging during their free time. It's objective consisted in running ten miles or more over a certain period of time.

This year we introduced a new system of G.A.A. representatives, no longer were they class repre - but instead one from each house.

The G.A.A. staff would like to express their most sincere gratitude to Mrs. Watson for all she has done for the school and more specifically the G.A.A.

Choral Club: Sacred Heart Larks

This year's choral club had a total of 120 members. Their first project was the Christmas concert, held in the chapel, which proved to be an unqualified success from every view point. It consisted of "Jingle Bells Fantasy" and several other songs from different countries.

The next event was a trip to East Greenbush for the New York State School Music Association festival on May 1st. Each level participating merited an "A" standing. At Prizes, on June 3rd, the Choral Club sang a selection from Sesame Street entitled "Sing": perfectly suited to the mood of the day. On Sunday June 6th, their presence was felt very strongly by the graduating class who knew that it was the last time they would hear them sing.

On the whole, the Choral Club had a very successful and fun year thanks to the direction and guidance of Mrs. Gray. Unfortunately she will no longer be with us next year. Mrs. Gray will be sincerely missed by all.

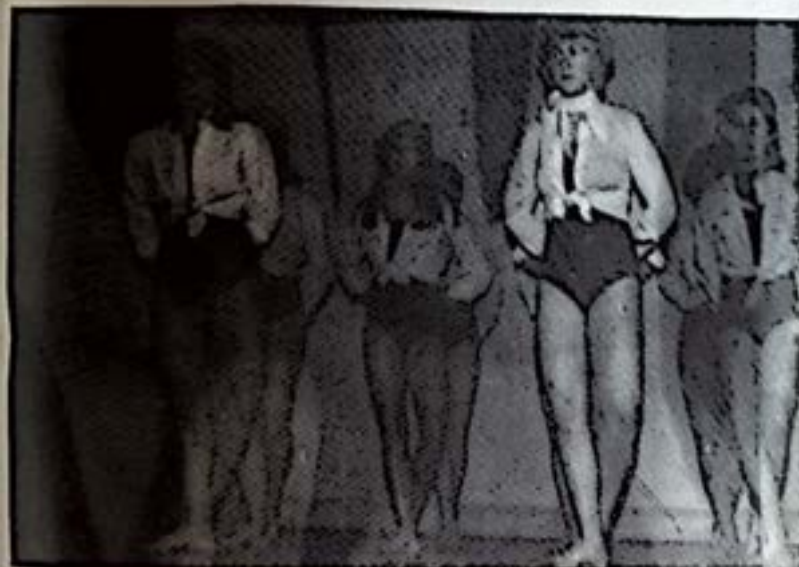

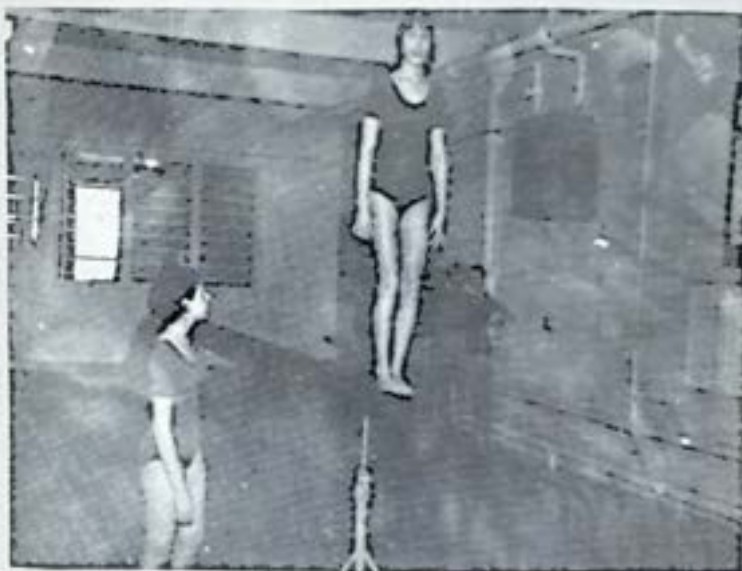

Rhonda Delaronde and Marilyn Montross conducted a Gym club after class, once a week on Tuesday afternoons, frequented by more than thirty students. The activities ranged from acrobatics on the beam to somersaults and handstands on the mats. Toward the end of the year, they devoted themselves to preparing for the Gym display held before the whole school as a culmination of their efforts.

It is to be hoped that continued interest will keep the club going again next year. A sincere thank you is extended to Rhonda and Marilyn from all the members of the club for their time and devotion.

Gym and Jazz

Several gifted and enterprising students, namely Nicole Lapointe, Elaine Sequeira and Jehane Asswad, have given their time to teach those interested in learning the graceful and rhythmic movements of Jazz. A lot of hard work was put into their routines, presented to us in various talent shows and other performances.

Thanks once again to those who made it all possible from those who appreciated their efforts.

The Art of Public Speaking

"Learn to express yourself clearly" was our motto.

This year with Mrs. Reid's help, the Public Speaking club was founded. After demonstrating interest in the successful Mini-Course some on the subject intrepid beings joined in and each week we met to have meaningful discussions and to learn more about public speaking. We also incorporated debating into the club.

On March 5th, Barbara Politi Pat Wilcock, and Michèle Nadeau, accompanied by Miss Margaret Tedford, went to Bishop's College to participate in some very interesting debating. They learned a great deal from it.

On March 12th the Rotary Club held it's first round of the Public speaking contest in which two of us, namely, Barbara Politi and Nadine Ozkan placed second and fourth respectively.

"It's been a great year - Thanks

Mrs. Reid!"

Folk Dance Club

From the talent shows, the gym performance, to the Spanish fiesta, Sylvie Gravel's dancing flair and skill as a teacher was demonstrated and appreciated by all present. Sylvie and her folk dance club represented themselves very well in all the events in which they participated this year.

Her talent will be sadly missed but we hope some-one will take her place as leader of the group next year, and the aptitude for dancing that the rest of the group have shown will not go to waste.

Le Club Français

Room 21, on Thursdays from 12:40 to 1:00, under the supervision of Mme. Laskowsky, is a place for relaxation, enjoyment and speaking French.

At the French Club, you can play different games, read good books and magazines, or just talk with your friends; all this in an effort to improve your French, and the bitter pill of learning is made a little sweeter by the easy-going, fun atmosphere found there.

We hope, more of you will go to the French Club next year, because it is a fun place to be!

Club de Espanol

Este año, las chicas en las clases de español fueron al club de español. Nosotras hablamos mucho de diferentes cosas, como no de la fiesta española! Muchas gracias a la Señora Allen que fue muy buena y generosa todo el año!

Once Upon a Playground

The play "Once upon a playground" was our school's contribution, this year to the drama festival held at Loyola in which Loyola, Villa Maria, and Sacred Heart participated. Besides those in the cast, many students were involved with set designs and props under the direction of Mrs. Cochrane, Mrs. Jones and Suzanne Hall.

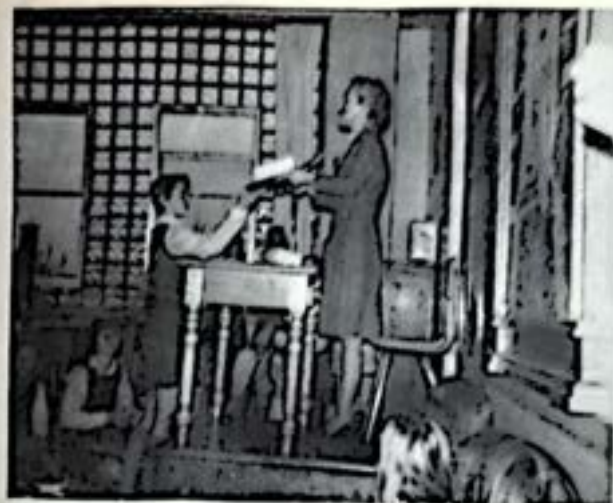

Mini-Courses

In January, the Mini-Courses, thanks to the organization and planning for many months by Mrs. Reid, were launched to become more than mere thoughts. Teachers were invited to discuss their favourite topics before an audience that wanted to listen to them. The students of Secondary III, IV and V were involved in this project.

Needless to say such a program required class participation; however it was not difficult to persuade the students to become involved in such a stimulating endeavour. After, they all agreed that the experience had given them a bird's eye view of topics of which they had previously known very little. After a successful start hopefully we can look forward to them again next year.

E. S. P. (extra special parties)

The walls shook and the mortar threatened to crumble this year, between the ten year old's luncheon, Mother Johnson's birthday and the Hallowe'en party for Secondary I.

It all began with the Hallowe'en party organized by Secondary V. Their "out of this world" costumes ranging from tufted voile to dazzling, tinkling silver probably gave the younger girls hilarious nightmares. There was also a haunted house, a fortune telling tent and free candies and it all ended in a dance to class.

Mother Johnson's birthday was celebrated with bursting balloons and a delicious cheese cake baked by Renee Lou Lovell.

Last but not least, was Liane Johnson's ten year old luncheon at which there was provided extras-desert for the departing nine year olds.

Christmas

Wishes...

... Mistresses'

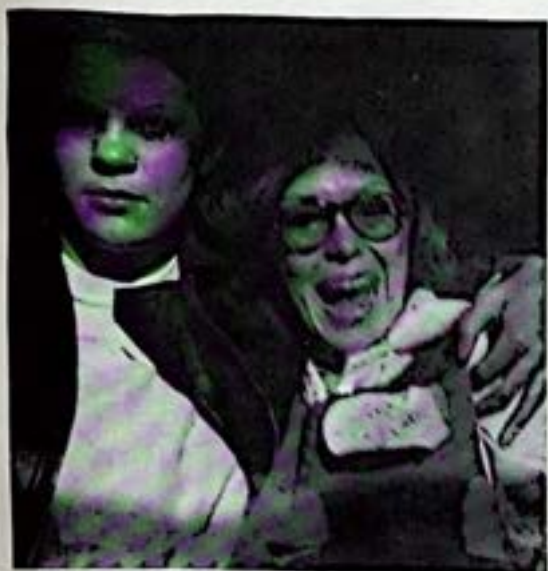

Feast

Christmas spirit was once again heralded in this year by our fun-filled Christmas wishes. The theme was "Being Me is Cool", and everyone wore little handmade buttons proclaiming this fact.

Afterwards all were given a "treat", which though not an edible miniature Christmas wreath, was well received despite its rock like consistency and "sugar-paint" coating. Teachers and Mother Johnson alike appreciated our homemade cards and our gifts, symbols of our feelings for them and the hard work they accomplish all year long for our well-being. The whole performance, from the "Peanuts" skit to the gift-giving ran very smoothly and was enjoyed by both the young and "young at heart."

All in all, it was a fantastic day!

Every year in order to express our appreciation for all the work the teachers do, the students dedicate a full day of entertainment to them.

This year the feast began with a word of welcome by Holly Haimerl and following this was an original play entitled "You're as cool as you are" featuring Bill Creem, Elmo Farkus played by Laura Kirkpatrick and Susan Dean, Mary Lou and the C.S.H. girls played by Colleen Burke, Chris Dobbrow and Pat Wilcock, the Narrator, Julie Neal and of course "the gang", Diane Souccar, Janet Polud, Julie Gibson, Lisa Price.

Set during the 1950's it created a light hearted mood which lasted the whole afternoon, if not days later. Faculty members enjoyed the gift giving, small tokens offered to each head of a department. Our president, Cindy Mizgala, gave the closing address expressing our gratitude before we all went to the cafeteria for refreshments and dancing to the music of the 50's in which teachers and Mother Johnson had a go. In the afternoon a talent show ended our feast, a fun tradition at the Sacred Heart.

La Fiesta Española y Latina

El día doce de mayo, las clases de español de Sec. IV y V ayudaron a Sra. Allen a preparar una fiesta Española y Latina en la sala de recepción.

Hubo una lotería para ganar una muñeca española, un juego de piñata, dos bailes mexicanos organizados por Sylvie Gravel y su grupo folklórico.

Tuvimos una corrida en que dos toros mataron al famoso torero español el "Invencible Speedy Gonzalez" (Michèle Nadeau).

Nos divertimos mucho y esperamos tener otra fiesta así el año próximo.

OLE!

Mini-Olympics '76

With the usual savoir-faire of this year's G.A.A., Sacred Heart held it's first Mini-Olympics.

A colourful procession of clowns, drummers and house members bearing their house banners inaugurated the games with a festive and lively note.

To everyone's delight, we had an Olympic torch bearer in the form of Mother Johnson, who, with great spirit and endurance lit our Mini-Olympic flame.

Game events and athletic feats followed which everyone appreciated and enjoyed immensely.

MONTREAL, EAT YOUR HEART OUT!!

Boarders

"Here, where the world is quiet;
Here where all trouble seems
Dead winds' and spent waves' riot
In doubtful dreams of dreams;
I watch the green field growing
For reaping folk and sowing,
For harvest time and mowing,
A sleepy world of streams."

A. Swinburne

All our love to those who made our year boarding at school so special and wonderful, especially Mrs. Grimes. It could have been terrible, it could have been frightfully hard and lonesome, but it wasn't, it was smiles and friendships galore! Thank You!!!

Day Trips

One of the most enjoyable and interesting day trips must have been Contact '76 at Selwyn House. Canadian history and N.A.L. students were primarily chosen to go but because of the overwhelming number of requests, others were allowed to go as well. It was a good opportunity to meet Canadian authors and personalities and listen to their ideas on various Canadian subjects ranging from as far as two hundred years ago to the situation fifty years from now.

Secondary IV students enjoyed a wonderful day at the ever popular Shelburne Museum in Vermont. Biology students from various grades made their annual field trip to Lac L'achigan in order to examine the flora, fauna and physical conditions of the area. Another group of budding scientists went to MacDonald College to tour the Raptor Bird Sanctuary and the Morgan Arboretum. Secondary I students experienced the fun of feeding the animals, of watching the performing dolphins, of driving through Monkeyland... all the wonders of Parc Safari Africain.

Secondary IV and V went on a ski trip to Sutton on January 17; it was the first ski trip to be organized by the school and it was a great success.

Day Trips

Because of our location in Montreal, Secondary I and IV, the two levels which study Canadian history visited the McCord which was well worth the effort. Secondary I also visited the Chateau de Ramezay, touring the museum and seeing demonstrations of weaving, spinning and cooking.

Students of Secondary III experienced a successful geology excursion to Mount Royal where they inspected geological phenomena at different stages.

Not to be forgotten, is the delightful trip, Secondary II made to St-Hilaire where they enjoyed the beautiful sunshine and warm breezes while learning something new about nature.

Last but not least, Secondary I and III ate tons of maple syrup and candy to their heart's delight at a sugaring off.

All in all, it proved to be a very interesting and enjoyable year!!!!

Carnival

Fun and Flair

This year, as far as dances and carnivals were concerned, Sacred Heart seemed to be in on all of them. Secondary IV and V were invited to join the Stanstead College Carnival to enjoy a talent show, a formal dinner and dance.

We were well represented by four true-blue Sacred Hearters: Margot Almond performing a skit entitled "The Ship", Donna Fisher giving us more than a few laughs with her "Noah and the Ark" act, Christine Dobbrow running as Carnival princess with a comical monologue called "The Playground", and finally Loraine Dearstyne also running as Carnival princess reading a poem with a witty outlook on "Life at Stanstead" and eventually being crowned as the Carnival queen.

The three higher grades from Sacred Heart were also in the Selwyn House Carnival which consisted of a dance and a ski trip to Mont Tremblant on the next day, which we all enjoyed tremendously, thanks also to the beautiful weather and more than favourable ski conditions.

Thanks both to Stanstead College and to Selwyn House for all the Fun!

C.S.H. Is Stage-Struck In Stratford

The Stratford trip was full of fun, educating and interesting things to do right up to the last minute.

We left Montreal, wide awake and ready to make a lot of noise and such on the bus; needless to say, we succeeded. Arriving at Stratford the first night was like an invasion of females into a deserted and forlorn ghost town. After stretching our legs awhile, sooner or later we all landed in Tim Horton's Donut Shop. There we managed to consume an amazing amount of donuts for breakfast, lunch and for midnight snacks as well.

On to the strictly theatrical aspects of the affair we really enjoyed seeing Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" and Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest." On Friday morning, we had the privilege of a guided tour through the Festival Theatre, which gave us a chance to see and experience the back-stage side of professional theatre, a first for many of us. In the afternoon, we took in Shaw's "St-Joan;" a tragedy which spoke to us on many different levels. The plays were all truly well produced, directed and acted. They were a joy to attend and it was clear to us that the trip provided insights that a textbook could never even aspire to come close to.

Thanks once again to Sister Murphy and Mrs. Reid, as well as all those who helped tie it all together and make it possible for us. We had a great time!

Retreat

Secondary V once again had the opportunity of participating in a retreat. This year it was led by Sister Kathleen Duffin, C.N.D., at the Centre Marie Paul at St. Veronique. Miss Morny Joy, Miss Margaret Tedford of the Religion department and Miss Kathleen Carbone, Guidance Counsellor, also accompanied the students. Father David Eley celebrated the mass during the retreat. The mass was full of mixed emotions and the sections of music or song were well choreographed with simplicity and understanding by Sister K. and her group.

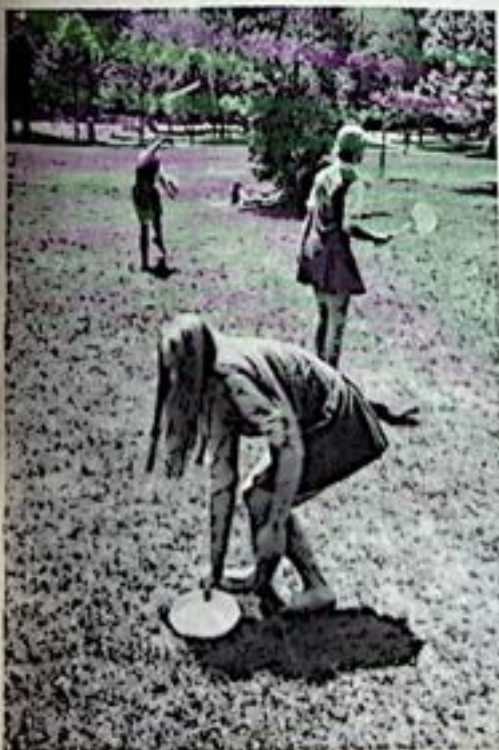

The retreat was a time of quiet reflection and relaxation interspeckled with bouts of entertainment, laughter and the great outdoors. It was also one of the last times that the Secondary V class was able to share an intimate experience together before their year was over and the bell tolled for them to leave and go their different ways.

Social Action : A Challenging Way to Help!

This year the Social Action programme for Secondary V, directed by Ms. Morny Joy, has become a new and dynamic part of school life. The centre "L'Abri" provided a psychic space to relax, reflect and exchange ideas. As well as this, on Tuesday afternoons many students elected to give at least one hour of voluntary service to the community at large. For those who took part in the programme, it was a challenge - providing the students with the doubts and frustrations as well as the rewards of being part of the life situations of many people - both young and old - who ask questions for which there are no easy answers.

"I wanna linger
a little longer
a little longer here with you.

It's such a perfect night
It doesn't seem quite right that this should be our last with you.

And come September
We'll all remember
Our convent days and friendships true.

And as the years go by
We'll think of you and sigh
This is so long and not goodbye..."

Etchings '76

"To everything there is a season and a time to every purpose under heaven:
... a time to weep, and a time to laugh,
a time to mourn, and a time to dance...
a time to get, and a time to lose, a time to keep, and a time to cast away,
... a time of love... a time of peace ..."

This book is meant to be a gathering together of all these precious times of our past year, a recollection, a remembrance of dreams, of hopes, of seasons changing, of purposes...

It will be like a clock with no hands, the exact hour, minute, second, will be forgotten but the persistence of the memory will live on forever in our senses... and in not just a book about a year at school, but a book about tears and laughter and friendship!

All our thanks to those without whom this book would not have been possible...

Sincerely,
Holly Haimerl
Barbara Politi.
